Installation

Unlike other Oi Soi Oi pendants that come with only the shade, these pendants include 3 E27 lampholders and a pre-installed 2-core cable ready for direct mains connection.

To install, use a ceiling rose with a hook so the twisted cord loop can be suspended securely. There are many ceiling rose options available on the market, and most electricians can also supply these. (Photo references below.)

If a longer drop is desired, a rope or chain can be added between the ceiling rose hook and the twisted cord loop. This adjustment must be carried out by a certified electrician.

For the USA

These pendants include electrical components (lampholders and cord) rated for 240V and are not compatible with US 120V systems. The shades can still be purchased; however, a certified US electrician must replace the lampholders and cord with 120V-compatible components.
